Everything around us is changing. Day after day, we search for knowledge, looking for an answer to the question of our existence. With technology, methods change. By use of computers, much of traditional school necessities may be omitted. It is possible to eliminate pens, pencils, books, notebooks, study halls, written tests, and research papers from our educational system. Our children may receive their education in a total mechanized fashion. The value of this type of education is yet to be seen. Only the human element cannot be omitted. For a school to function it must have,

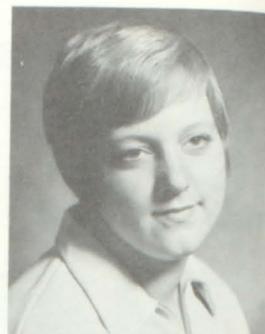

PEOPLE.

Students, faculty and administrators make VHS more than an educational facility. School, for us, is an experience. Learning to cope with today's problems, as well as those of the future are an important part of school life. We are being given more responsibilities to help us face the challenges of tomorrow.

Lookout world- here comes the Class of '73

As twelve long years we have spent together draw to a close, we can reflect upon the common-day happenings. We experienced running to catch the bus, losing books, forgetting assignments, being late for the bell, term papers, lockers which will never be large enough, regardless of size, lost pencils, pens, and of course, report cards, passes and make-up slips, daily bullitens, bus rides to and from athletic and speech events, assemblies, plays, concerts, and hours of practice. The list is endless. We've done so much together, as with floats, snow sculptures and the Magazine Drive. Each Senior has at least one special memory which will be cherished in our later years. We go on to jobs, travel, colleges, new relationships. We will never be all together again, but then, the school will never be the same. We have added to VHS by our very presence. The Class of '73 will live forever.

The second year with a smile

It has been said that our Junior year is the best year of High School life. A Junior is forced to make many decisions, yet he need not plan his future yet. As Juniors we made many valuable decisions which provided glory, many which make us worry. As Juniors we can look back on our glory, our winning float, our worries, losing the rings, and we look with anticipation to what our Senior year will hold.

We start planning our future

Jane Philaya and Lee Branville prepare for a snowball fight.

Through all the confusion we stuck together

The sophomores became the class of '75 this year. Because of class projects, such as the float, the sophomores got together and began to feel like a class. The confusion of changing buildings, more electives, and added responsibilities faded as the year progressed. Although we had to start planning the years ahead, we still have two years to appreciate our high school years.

ADMINISTRATION

at VHS creates a structured society. Making and enforcing school rules is a major part of their job. The most important thing however, is the education of the student body. They provide us with formal classes and assist the students through individualized help. As coaches, advisors, and officials, they make extra-curricular activities possible. They help us to plan our future and wade through the trials of indecision.

The enforcers . . .

Mr. Beulke, our principle and Mr. Rukavina, his assistant, headed the 1973 school year once again. Their responsibilities included such things as supervising the faculty, disciplining the students, and helping out in school activities when faculty negotiation boards forbid participation in non-contract activities. Mrs. Schuman and Mrs. Winkler, the office secretaries, were ever present to assist the administration, faculty, and students. Many forms and technicalities were completed through their efficiency.

The school board was in charge of many of the important decisions that effected the entire school district. The pinch of finance was strongly influential on many of its final decrees.

Mr. Anderson and Mr. Como fulfilled the requirements of the Senior High counselors. They helped the students that needed assistance on matters as individual as getting admitted to a college or just someone to talk to.

One step closer

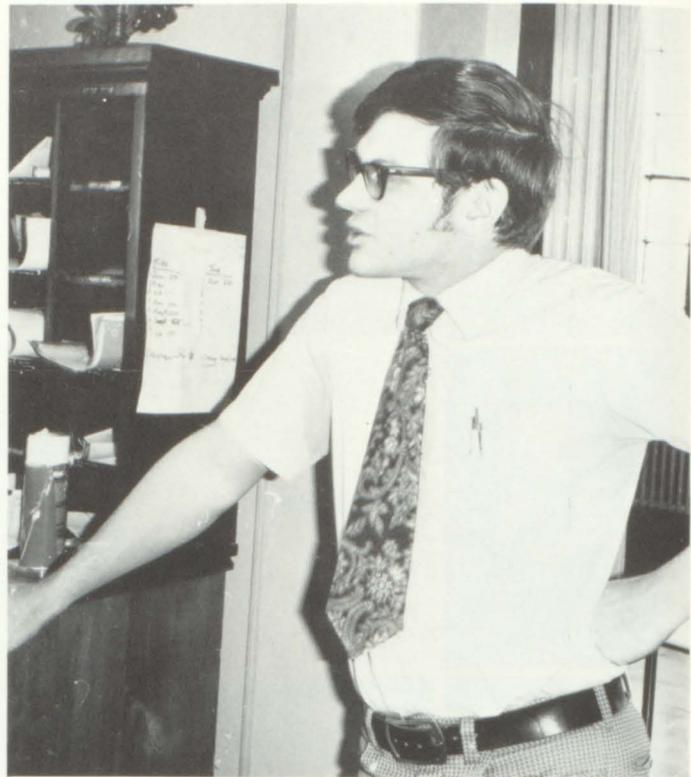

World communications were brought closer to VHS through the foreign language department. Through extensive use of audio-visual aids, the students learn the spoken as well as the written language. The foreign languages at VHS, which include French, German, and Spanish, meet the requirements of many colleges. Through the study of a language, and the countries that speak it, foreign language students strive forward in the understanding of our world.

Semester English

English found itself a new structure in the semester system for 1973. No longer did students or teachers have to tolerate the same subjects and the same teachers or students for an entire year. The electives went wild, and all too often, classes were dropped from the proposed list because of insufficient enrollment.

The electives were definitely something new to classes in '73. Students were never before so responsible for the classes they were in. It was not uncommon to find some students in the English department a large portion of their school day. Much excitement was generated from classes like Humanities, and Reading Seminar. The electives had their weak spots, but when both students and faculty learn to function in the system the problems can be worked out and we will have a well established English curriculum.

Election, 1972

The central topic for the Problems of Democracy classes this year focused around the election or "72". The students all participated in a mock election which reflected the political views of the soon to be voters. The class included a completion of tax forms.

The old World History classes were covered up with a new name in '73 for the incoming Sophomores. The class "assumed" the title of "Culture Areas" but for the most part involved the same structure as did the social class Seniors had taken in their Sophomore year. As a part of their studies the students were given the opportunity to see the movie production of Nicholas and Alexandria.

The Juniors met another of their requirements in their U.S. History classes. Probably one of the most interesting of social classes, it covered the political and social movements in our country's past from its development across the seas to the establishment of our nation today.

The social classes also made provisions in their curriculum for the students that had a desire to spend more time in the department by the addition of Current Affairs, American Minorities, Geography and Psychology.

Things are looking up to George Munig again today.

Business and math combined

Many people working together made up the business and math departments at VHS. As world knowledge expands so must these class offerings. Computer math or consumer education are not uncommon classes for students to take to learn to cope with today's rapidly moving business affairs.

There is also a spot in these classes for the student who intends to continue his education. Advanced Senior math is one such class, which offers a challenge to any math student brave enough to adventure into it.

The business department offers a well planned selection of classes for the student who has hope of entering the business world, vocational tech schools, or a college business school.

Through the combined efforts of these two departments VHS students are better able to enter the world with an understanding of what is awaiting them.

Science seeks

The Science department at VHS is divided into three major sections: Biology, Chemistry, and Physics. Biology is the study of living organisms. Students cover such topics as heredity and reproduction. Chemistry deals with non-living matter. This is the class that generates the odors of sulfur that floated through the halls of the annex.

Physics, under Mr. Somero, some people got confused with math classes. The properties of nature were taught in a series of mathematical formulas. Lab exercises were a large part of the Science classes.

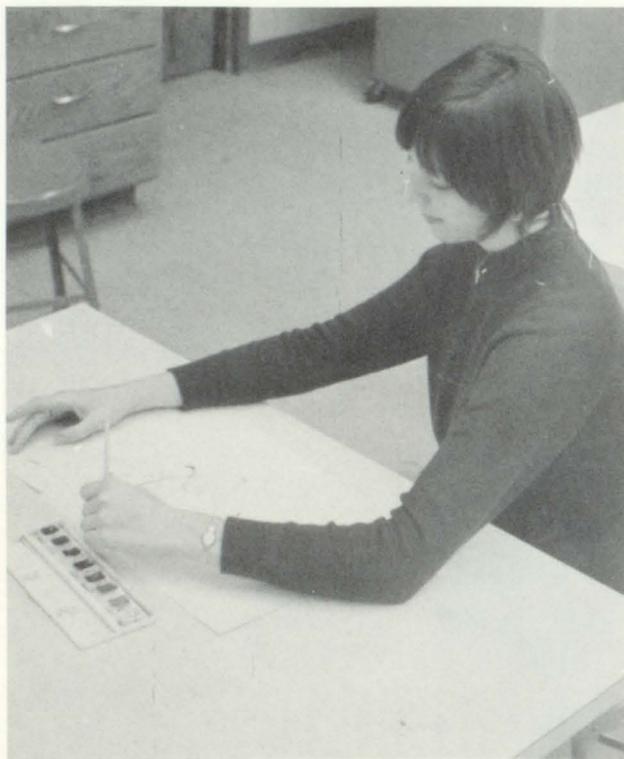

William Somero keeps an eye on his class.

Students express themselves

Creativity and students ran wild in the VHS art department. Personal pride and concern were two elements of all of the students art projects. Some of them even hoped so high as to think that someday they may be making a living from their love of art. Others were there for a credit. The watchful and critical eyes of Mrs. Halunen and Miss Moberg guided the flowering young artists.

—The Gallery

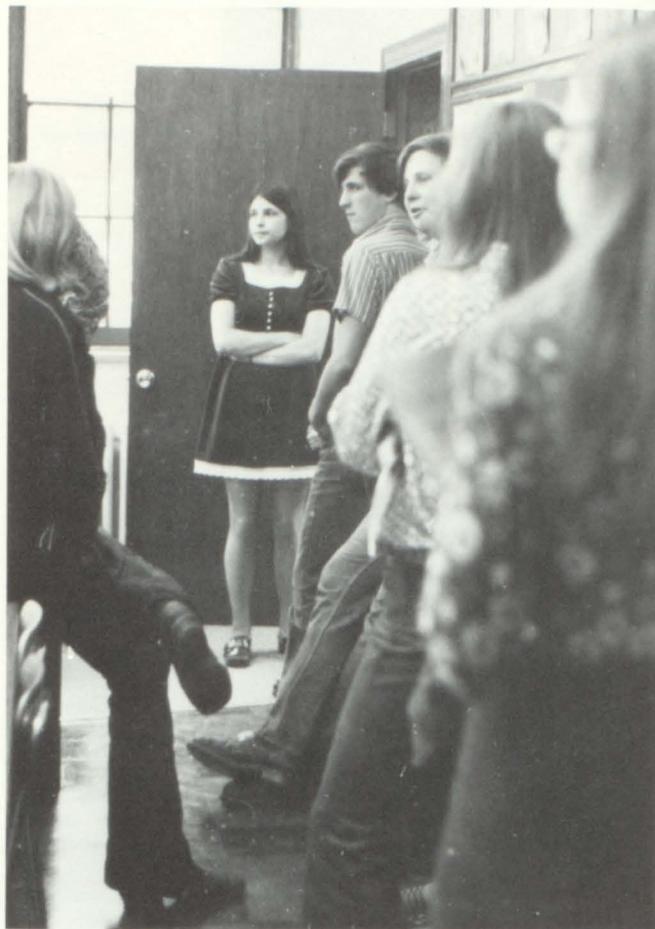

The band, orchestra, and choir combined efforts to make up the music department at VHS. The musicians were dedicated, hard working and talented. They exerted their talents to win prizes, entertain many audiences, and aid in the task of peping up the VHS students during the games. More often than not, the audiences found themselves tapping a foot, snapping a finger, or even clapping and singing along.

Wilbur Geary runs the band through another rehearsal before a performance.

Boys invade

Our time was spent in the new Home Economics rooms in the annex. The students made clothing projects from pajamas to coats. In the kitchens you could smell the heavily scented aroma of the girls freshly baked pastry. Family Life and Child Care gave the girls a background in baby care. The boys were an addition in the North Kitchen this year. They found a spot in the Consumer Foods class.

Creative thinking in Industrial Arts

The Industrial Arts department offered the students that desired vocational training a chance to obtain that knowledge.

A new class, Shops Math, was added to the array of classes. It helped students to understand basic problems such as board feet and ratios for drafting.

The classes, much like those of art, offered the students a chance at practice creativity.

A special event in which some Virginia Special Education students participated in was the National Special Olympics held at the UCLA Campus. The students participated in events such as swimming, track, softball, gymnastics, and basketball. Three area students went to the State Special Olympics and placed first to advance to the Nationals.

Sound in mind . . .

What does one learn at VHS? He learns the skills of Math, the history of our forefathers, the structures of society, and the truth that "Brains over Brawns" is not a true cliché. At our school, we learn not only to perfect our minds but our bodies as well. Through the pains of defeat, aching muscles, the frustration of wet hair, the sniffles, the glory of victory, free play, and just feeling great we put both our dignity and our heart into athletics. At VHS we are given only the best, and that is why we skill our bodies and our minds, so that we may give only the very best.

SPORTS this year generated excitement that penetrated the walls of VHS. Student involvement was where it was at. The loyal student fans gathered together at the contests all pulling for the same thing—victory. This year the student body became a member of Virginia's athletic teams. They contributed to the team's success with deafening cheers, clapping hands, stomping feet, and gesturing fists. And when the teams lost, the students suffered with the biting disappointment, knowing all the while that Virginia had the better team.

Devils go to state meet.

Last year's seniors, Mark Peterson, Tom Postudensek, Jim Galonski, and Bob Erickson, along with the class of '73 members, Kerry Bidle, Mike Buccanaro, Dave LaBlanc, and John Bachman led the 1972 VHS golf team to an IRC title, and a second place in the district. Mark, Tom, Jim, and Kerry golfed in the regional match, but only Mark qualified for the state meet. Mr. Urick, the coach is looking for some hard work, and good performances from the returning lettermen, and some prospects Dave Ewens, and Scott Harvey.

Kerry Bidle hopes the wind will blow the golf ball in the cup.

Al Holmes wonders if he tried to hit the tennis ball or the sun.

District Champs

The tennis team had a good year with a 9-4 record. They lost to Hibbing twice, and Aurora and Greenway once each. Joe Scipioni won the district, and was second in the region, but was beaten in the state tournament by the eventual runner-up. The doubles team of Wayne Wilberg and Chuck Gill was second in the districts, but was defeated in the region tournament.

This year's team should have a good year again, with six returning lettermen. The seniors include Tony Baine, Tab Baumgartner, and Chuck Gill. The juniors include Mark Padgett, and Al Holmes. Tom Scipioni is a returning sophomore letterman. All in all it looks like a very good year for VHS tennis.

Tired lungs, sore muscles, and plain hard work lead the 1972 Girl's Track team to a successful season. The team posted a 5-2 record, losing only to Int'l Falls and Moorhead. Virginia finished second in Districts, Regional, North Star Conference and was an amazing runner-up in the state meet.

Six new school records were set in 1972 by the Boy's Track team. We won our first large meet trophy at the Lewis Relays and Mile Relay trophy to beat Eveleth. Advancing to State after winning the mile in Regions, Tony Morrin fell on the second lap to take fifth place.

A season of high expectations

The Virginia Blue Devils football team had its sights set on the IRC championship, every player believing it could be done. The Blue Devils rolled over their first five opponents in convincing fashion. A winless Grand Rapids team humbled the Devils and mercilessly crushed all such hopes with a 17-6 victory. Still dazed and reeling from the defeat the Devils were caught off balance by Eveleth. With this second straight loss, all dreams of a championship were lost. The last challenge of the season being the undefeated Hibbing Blue Jackets, Virginia had something to prove to themselves and to the fans. This game epitomized the 1972-1973 season. But still their efforts fell short. Because of their own mental letdowns and bad luck, Virginia lost 21-12.

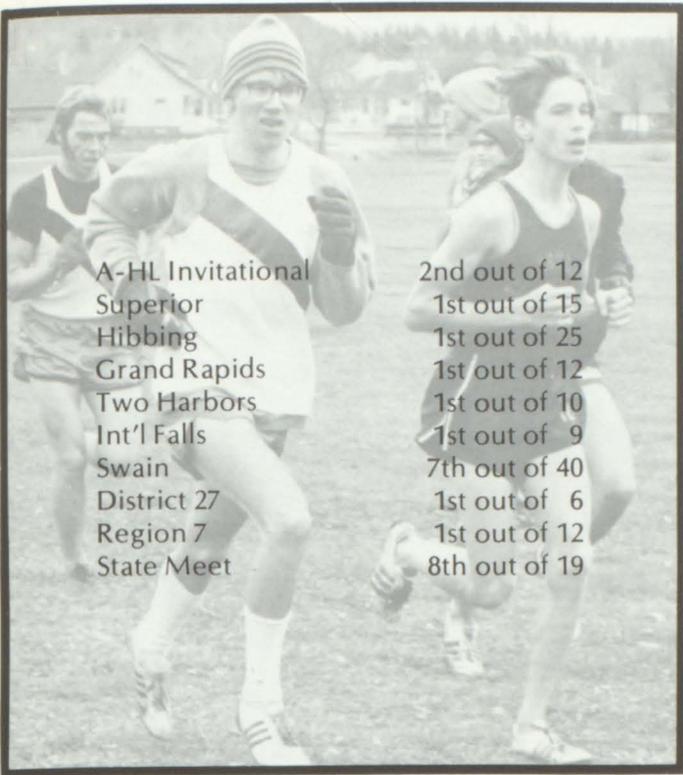

The season began with high expectations. It ended quietly, humbly in disappointment. It was an exciting season, one that no one will want to forget.

Crosscountry Devils go to State

For the first time the VHS Crosscountry team found the speed to send a delegation to the state meet. The mighty Devil power shone through at the state tournament where the Blue Devils placed eighth. The VHS record for regular meets well reflected their abilities. The team was able to capture first place in all but one of these meets. Under the leadership of coach Pastika the Devils team put in many hundreds of miles of practice on the Virginia Golf Course. Often inclement weather added to the strain of practice. Tony Morrin, named Most Valuable Player by his teammates, was the lifeblood of the team. He and Paul Richards served as co-captains for the 1973 team. Their enthusiasm lead the entire team to its most victorious season yet.

Wrestlers surging with power

It was the year of the almost. Many times the team came close to placing first. In Region Tournaments the boys placed third and posted a 10-2 record. Bob Farden and Tom Welander traveled to State.

This year saw many more spectators at the meets, and wrestling gained recognition in the eyes of VHS fans.

Four years later . . . the same team

Curling is one of the sports of VHS that one hears very little about. It involves the same amount of time and work and pride as any other sport. Few spectators attended the meets to witness the Blue Devils in action. Coach Dan Sunberg kept the boys ahead of our opponents. This year's team boasts the same members that started out together four years ago.

Grace, beauty, and form . . . gymnastics

One sport that has very little spectators is gymnastics. It requires an extreme amount of concentration, more so than any other sport. Gymnastics is divided into four areas: the balance beam, uneven parallel bars, floor exercises, and vaulting. Because of the small number of schools having gymnastics teams, the girls could not compete as much as they would have liked to.

Unsinkable

The Girls' Swim Team had another undefeated season. The only real competition they had was from Chisholm, but the Devils were victorious, as usual. The girls took the Region 8 title, and had to stop competing because of the lack of a State Tournament for girls.

Devils tread to victory

Although the swimming team was not able to dump their forever-foes, Hibbing, they came through on all the rest. Firing up in frigid water is not the easiest thing to do, but somehow the boys did it. Posting a 9-4 record, the Blue Devils had a rather successful season.

The Devils rate on top.

With only a handful of returning lettermen, Virginia expected to spend the season rebuilding the team. Graduation had been rough on hockey. The young team proved otherwise to the fans and critics. They started out slow, but after putting a few games behind them, including an outstanding victory over Edina West, the Devils gave our opponents a taste of aggression. Spirited and raring to go, the Blue Devils posted a 14-5-1 record in regular season games. Virginia took over the number one spot in State after defeating the Hibbing Blue Jackets. The Devils skated past Grand Rapids three times, twice during the regular season, and once during the District Tournaments, sending Virginia to Regions. The Region Committee's decision to ban electrical instruments from games put a damper on fan spirit before the Duluth East game. Virginia was outraged at the decision and attempted to have it changed, without avail. Duluth East remembered Virginia's surging comeback during the third period of last year's Region playoffs. The Grey hounds handed the Blue Devils an upsetting defeat to finish our season. The young team gained the respect of all those who witnessed their fine playing ability.

Zombies—Rejects form rivalry

The students that took part in the 1972-1973 intramural teams had three major sports; basketball, volleyball, and field hockey as well as some limited activity in broomball to participate in. The sports provided boys with a desire for some physical body activity to be active in a competitive sport while enjoying himself. As is the case with all competitive team sports there were rivalries among the teams. The major contest was between the Zombies and the Rejects throughout the season.

The teams met in alternate shifts for games each Monday and Wednesday night under the supervision of Mr. Jeff Johnson in the boys gym. For the close of the season a tournament was formed in which the Zombies aced first place for all three events. In observing the combined standings at the end of play it came down with the Zombies and the Rejects tied.

Canceled games dampen season

Bred to win at Roosevelt High, the desire to win gave us a baseball season worthy of praise. Allowing only 2 losses in regular games, the team posted a 12-2 record. Fighting hard for the District Championship, our hopes shattered as we lost to Eveleth.

To maintain our status as students at Roosevelt High School we must meet certain requirements. We have to attend classes, finish homework, and take tests. If we go that far, we remain in VHS. For some of us, that is enough. For most of us, that would be boredom. We have to be more involved within the school. This desire to be part of the school has brought about another important aspect of our lives,

ORGANIZATIONS.

We may participate in clubs which will assist us in our future occupations, such as FTA. We are given the opportunity to express ourselves through our publications. The students at VHS may compete through organized groups, as with Debate. We bring out our hidden talents through the music-oriented groups. We also learn to get along with others through cheering, Slave Day, and science projects. Nearly all organizations are similar in that they have money making projects, which most of us try desperately to avoid. Above all, these organizations help to give the students a sense of belonging. That is what gives VHS life.

The Pep Club sponsored many pep fests outside in the early fall.

The Student Council of 1972-1973 directed by Mrs. Koebensky, started off with nostalgia day. The judging took place during noon hour as Karen Remer and Jim Larson were elected the winners of this Homecoming Week festivity. The Student Council also sponsored a slave day. These students went to do odd jobs and the profits were given to a camp for the handicapped. The Student Council had a new set-up and constitution this year which helped them to be active and very organized.

Besides providing for scholarships, National Honor Society tutored junior high students this year. Headed by Advisor Miss Beckstrom, the NHS is composed of students with the qualities of leadership and scholarship.

This year's Pep Club, though hit hard by a large membership and a small attendance, worked hard to bring the fans to the games and to kill the apathy of the smaller sports. The Pep Club made signs, put on many outdoor fall pep fests, and sponsored the added attraction of two mascots at every game.

Future plans

There was more of a lack of interest in FTA this year, with only three members that are trying to save the club from dying. The members are interested in becoming teachers someday but there's not much they can do with only three members. Sheldon Johnson is the advisor.

The goal of FHA is to better help the community and family living. The girls sold fruit cakes during the year to add to the treasury. They sponsored a "Dad's Night" in honor of the girls' fathers. They also served at College Night at Mesabi State.

Under the direction of Dallis Frandsen, A Capella Choir is noted as one of the finest in the State. With hopes of sending the Choir abroad in the future, fund raising was a major activity. Various singing engagements included three concerts and a trip to the Twin Cities.

The student body became more aware of the Mixed Choir by its increase in size. Directed by Larry Groves, the Choir combined efforts with the A Capella Choir to present the Winter Concert, Pops Concert, Spring Concert and the Musical. The Mixed Choir also assisted the A Capella Choir in its fund raising project. Malone Hall was converted into a modern complex of offices, practice rooms of varying sizes, storage rooms, and two large group rooms. Certain to be the finest Music Center in Northern Minnesota, Malone Hall aides VHS in every aspect of music.

Lighted on fire

"Let's just take that strain one more time, folks," seemed to be the classic of Mr. Davis this year. Practicing songs over and over was the thing the players seemed to do, but it was worth it.

Pom Pon

Parades were their first project, marching with the band, and adding a little flash to it. The girls worked up routines in the fall and winter for football and hockey games, and performed under the revived name of "The Blue Angels".

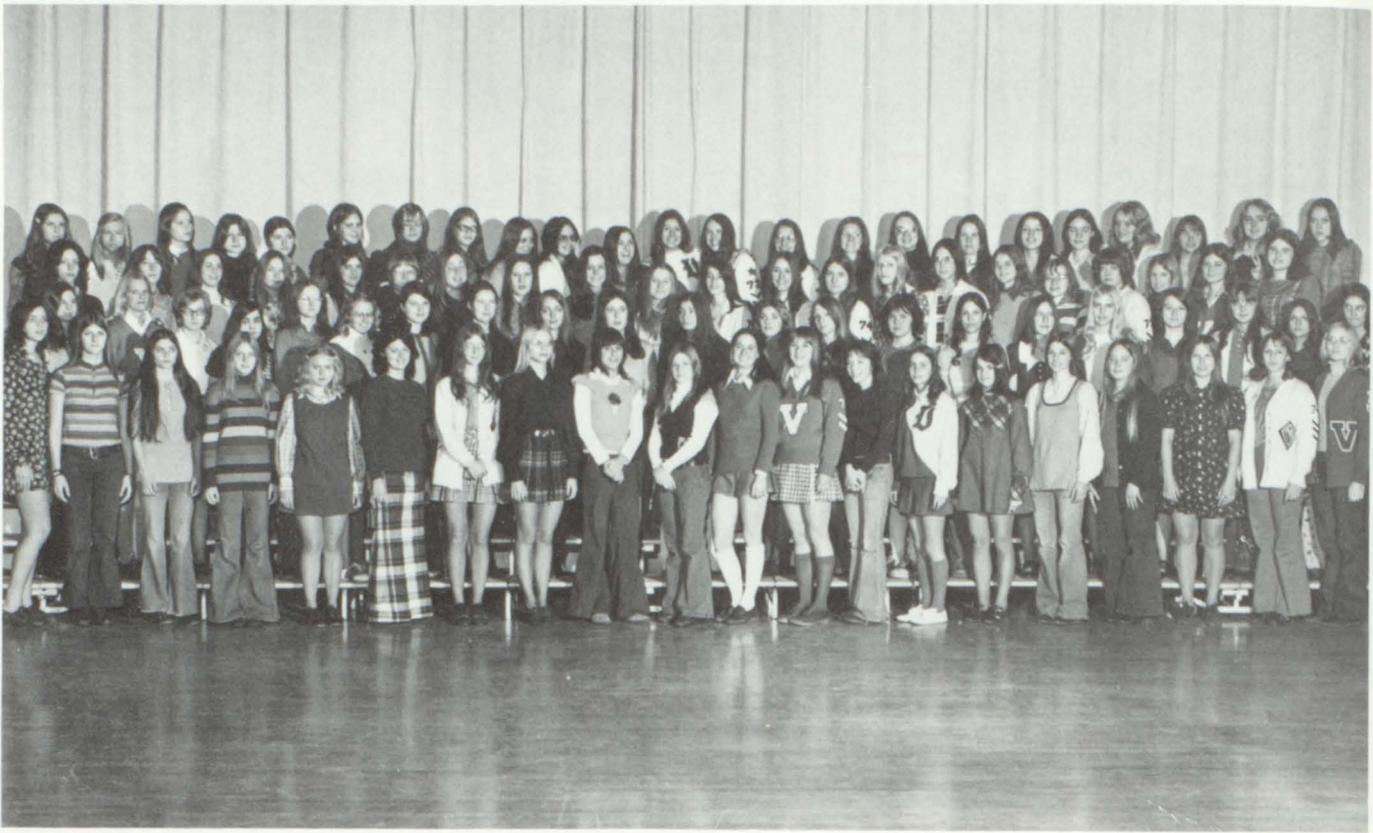

Band

The band had two new additions this year, the first was the pom pon team, and second was the new look in the remodeled Malone Hall. The band added their spirit to VHS by playing at games, but this year they added a little more by playing an introduction at face offs, and jump balls.

World interests

A number of ideas were put to use to support the Tri-Hi foster child, Dieu. Included were a bottle drive, car wash and candy sale. Despite the many members, only a "handful" actually participated on the bottle drive and car wash. Meetings held every other Tuesday night were poorly attended due to homework, jobs and other extracurricular activities. The girls got together for several parties during the year, as that Tri-Hi is primarily a social club.

Girls sell refreshments at football games

Entre Nous, a girls' social club, decorated the halls for Homecoming, with the main theme being "Be Proud Be A Part". They sold tons of popcorn and gallons of pop at the football games. At their annual Christmas party they entertained and gave Christmas presents to two welfare children. Miss Beckstrom and Mrs. Hurd are the advisors.

Two sent abroad

AFS weekend, held on January 19-21, not only marked the arrival of other AFS students to Virginia for the weekend, but it was the return of Ann Fleming from her year as an AFS student in South America. In February, they held a bingo to raise another fund to send Jackie Rabideau to Honduras for a year as an AFS student.

The newly formed Science Club is the first organization of a group of students interested in various areas of science, math, and engineering. It is a chapter of the Minnesota Junior Academy of Science. Which holds regional and state science fairs and regional symposiums. The members work on various research projects for entry into the regional science fair. Mr. Somero is the advisor.

NFL is like a "National Honor Society" for Speech and Debate. You must have 25 points in either to join, and you can earn honors as you progress. This year's members can enter in three tournaments. Five members entered one at Falls last fall, and ten entered at Moorhead State College, and in May NFL members attend one at Detroit Lakes.

Our debate team entered in several meets such as those in Duluth, Brainerd, St. Paul, UMD, and Rapids. The varsity placed second at Denfeld and fourth in the Region, making them alternates to state. This is the best Virginia has done in it's five years of debate.

A first hand view of publications

Journalism was actively a part of life for a small number of publication people who existed in room 209½. As with all volunteer staffs with little recognition the numbers of people who actual labored for a publication was small. "Cadeaux," the literary magazine, made an impressive appearance with its new shape trying hard to be a creative experience.

The "Star of the North" faced changes among which was the idea that the paper would be published monthly in some form. Editorial hassles never ceased to stump the "Star" at the time of deadlines. Hopefully some people were able to get a first hand view of some of the work and activity involved in producing a school paper.

Missed deadlines kill staff

The attitudes of the Rohian "staph" were obvious when for the first time in three years we continually fumbled our way through deadlines, often missing them. The enthusiasm and concern of the student body was well reflected in the total yearbook sales which hit a low of 580 books sold in comparison to 700 books one year ago.

It is difficult to convince a small group of people to work on a student publication that did not include the appreciation of much of the student body. To put in continual labor until Spring with no real reinforcement to keep you going was one of the detriments of being a yearbook. Here it is, and if you don't like it "blame it on the Yearbook Company."

Very few people live from day to day. We live from one event to another. After one event, we spend our time looking forward to the next event. Thinking about Fridays, games, parties, concerts, plays, three day weekends, and tournaments help to relieve the boredom of everyday life.

STUDENT LIFE includes special occasions which give us something to look forward to. Week-long activities excite the student body. They make the pressures of school bearable. Without them, we would have nothing to break up nine months of studying. These occasions are as important to school as the books. They bring us closer to our fellow students, working with one another on floats and decorations.

Homecoming week goes back to the 50's

Homecoming Week started off with Nostalgia Day. Dressing up in the styles of the 50's set the student body in gear. Originally we were to play Eveleth, but because of the intense rivalry involved and the added spirit brought about by Homecoming Week, the date was changed and we played the Chishlom Bluestreaks. On Friday, Jo Marie Agriesti was crowned Homecoming Queen, and that night the Blue Devils romped over Chisholm. During half-time, the Junior's winning float, "The Pick of the Litter" lead the parade of floats.

Queen Jo Agriesti, watches the Devils trample over Ely, during Homecoming 1972.

Division of labor

This year, for the first time, VHS had cheerleading squads. The entire twelve cheered for the football season, and later on divided up into a hockey and a basketball squad.

The average student does not realize what goes into cheerleading. Monday mornings often found our cheerleaders aching from strained muscles and hoarse from yelling. Unlike many fans, the cheerleaders watch and cheer at games until the final bell rings, regardless of the score. They stick with and defend our teams all the way. At pep assemblies they often tried to pep up a very unenthusiastic crowd with skits and cheers. Our cheerleaders out-class every other school, in appearance, in vocal ability and in spirit.

Hockey Cheerleaders: Row 1. Kris Tamminen, Kathy Pineo. Row 2. Jennifer Polski, Paula Pazzelli, Della Kwiecinski, Mary Jo Ralston.

Basketball Cheerleaders: Row 1. Priscilla Carlson, Jill Johnson. Row 2. Mary Slade, Bonnie Eilola, Debbie Lassila, Diane Slade.

Paula Pazzelli helps bring out the enthusiasm of the students at an assembly.

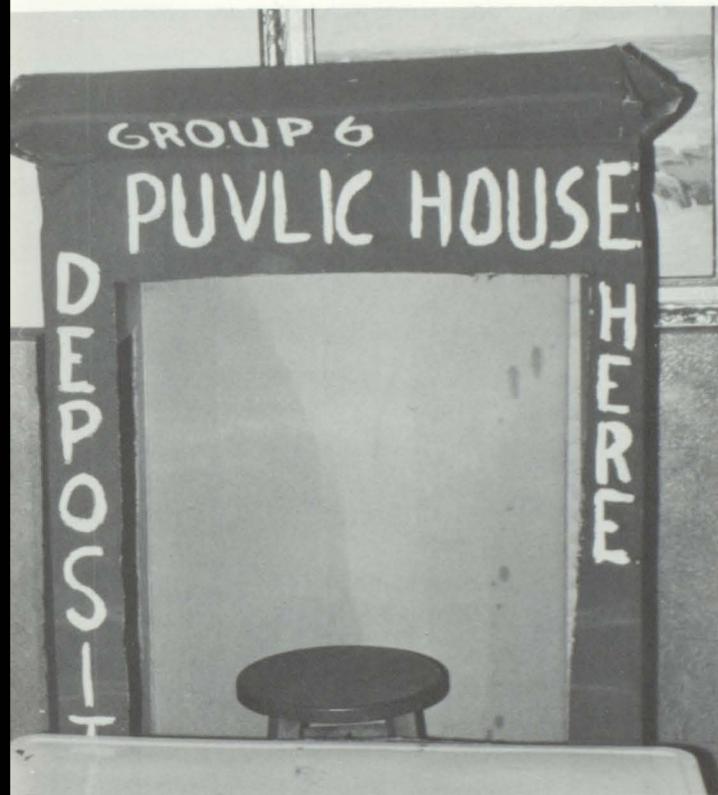

Tony Bane, Mark Braaten, Sharon Chida, and Mrs. Stolberg do what they can to make the magazine drive a success.

Magazine drive a new record

In their usual tradition the senior girls outsold the boys contributing to another successful Slave Day. The seniors of "73" displayed their selling ability when they outsold their quota on the last collection day for the magazine subscriptions. Although they were far behind the quota during the entire sales drive, the seniors turned in a vast sum of money on the last day of sales which brought them well over the quota.

Mary Jo Snyder was the senior girl who took the honors of top sales in the class. Maribeth Rebeau, a junior, outsold the entire class in the competition of the juniors.

The end result of the magazine drive was seen later when the list of class dues was posted in the senior social classes and students filed in on their noon hour to render their checks to Mr. Munig for support of senior class activities.

Group 6 deposits their magazine sales here.

“Here comes the sun”

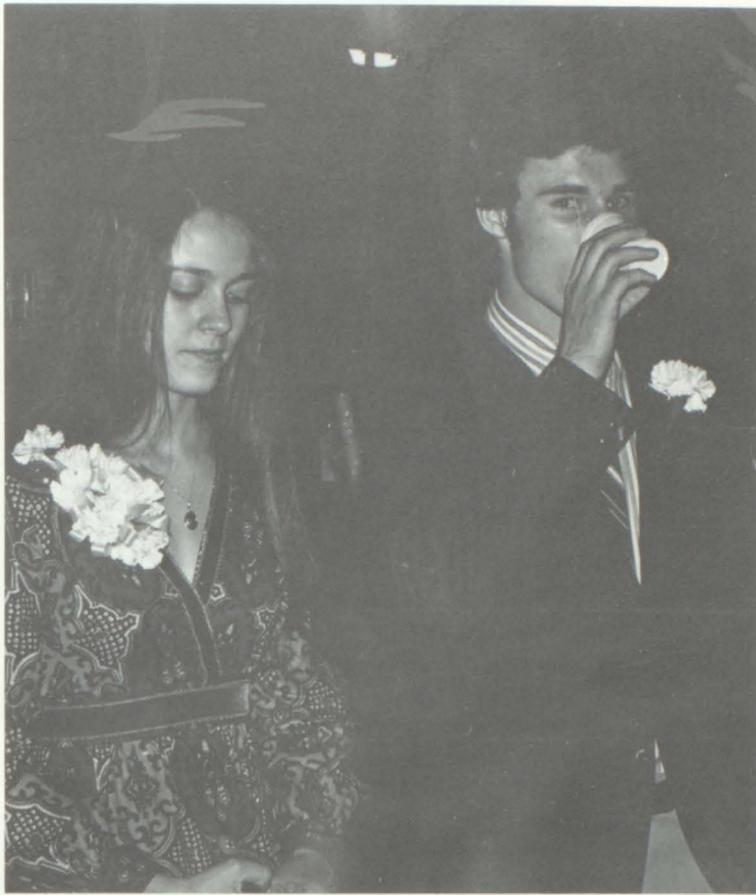

The large yellow ball well reflected the theme of “Here Comes the Sun” for the students who attended the 1972 prom. The couples felt small in comparison to the oversized mushrooms, bees, and flowers which filled the room. The masterpiece, a colorful mural transformed the gym into a wonderland. Cassidy set the Tempo for the evening’s entertainment.

Tim Riordan enjoyed a slow dance with Jane Bonner at the prom.

The decorations for the prom conveyed the feeling of Mother Nature at her best.

Debbie Peterson and John Pasternacki enjoyed the punch at Turnabout.

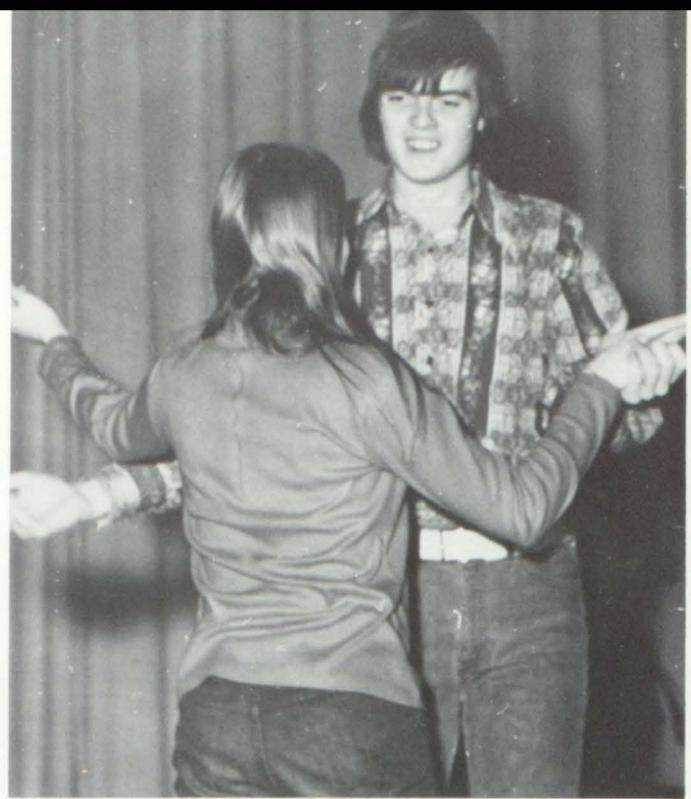

Paul Thomas wonders where his date wandered off to at the prom.

A short vacation to Hawaii

The girls at VHS turn on the aggression for Tournabout to ask the boys out. Attended mostly by sophomores, the Tournabout related the mood of a Hawaiian vacation. The Tournabout was put on by the Tri Hi and Entre Nous clubs.

"Can Can" televised

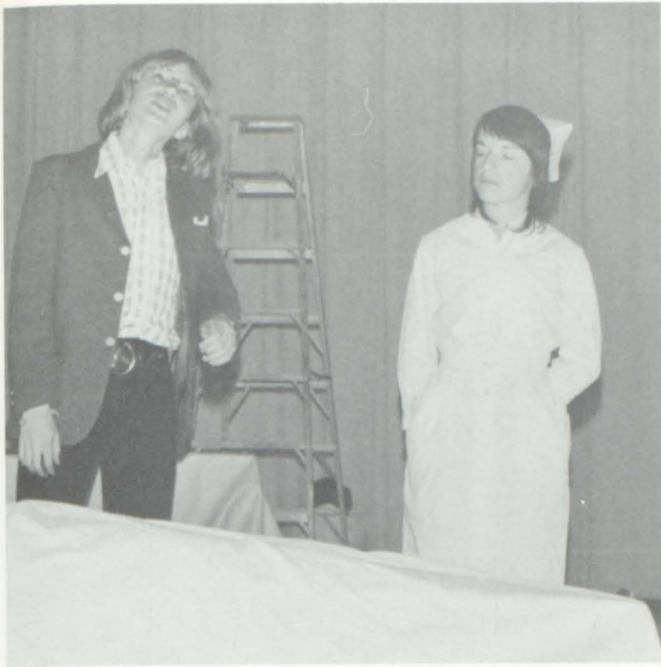

The choirs did a fine job to present "Can Can" as this year's Musical. The musical is about a group of dancers in France who do the illegal, exotic dance, the "Can Can". It was performed for two nights, entertaining all those who saw it. It was well publicized, and many of the cast members did a preview of the performance on two television shows.

Chuck Christianson and Cindy Stocco work together to perfect their dance steps.

Thurber's Carnival, a light-hearted comedy was presented as the Spring Play. The play was composed of selections from James Thurber's works. Thurber's Carnival had no public performance, but it was presented in the MSJC Fine Arts Festival.

VHS presented Deadwood Dick for the One Act Play contest. The plot was that of a melodramatic western having a hero marrying a fair maiden, with two living happily ever after.

Snowless sno week

The 1973 Winter Sports Festival was highly unusual. The weather man did not cooperate, and we received rain instead of snow. We had to give up the idea of building snow sculptures. The Student Council planned something different for nearly every day. To start off the week, Monday became hillbilly day. Everyone dressed up in jeans and old grubbies. Wednesday the senior girls enslaved the senior boys as a result of the magazine drive. The boys were forced to wear odd costumes and obey all orders given to them by their masters. On Friday, the students dressed up and coronation took place. Tony Morrin became the 1973 Winter Sports Festival King and Carol Flaim was crowned queen.

The Blue Devils won every contest during the week.

Carol Flaim and Mike Squillace head toward the stage to await the crowning.

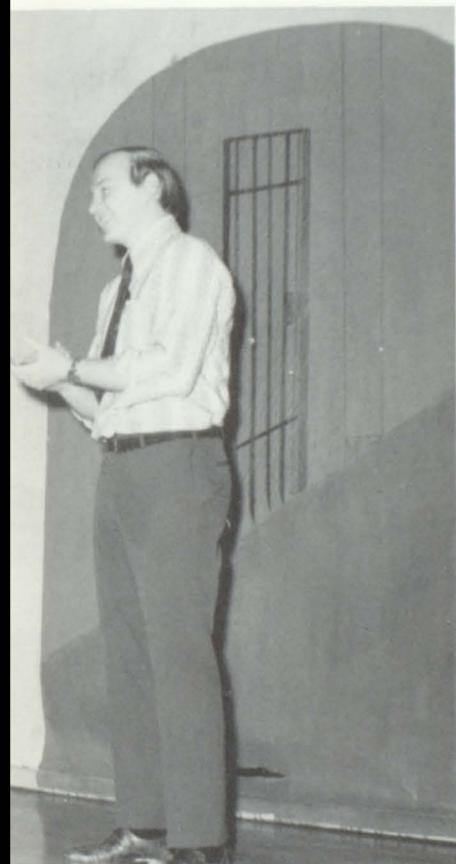

Marc Mattson, as Master of Ceremonies, begins the Winter Sports assembly.

Suspence grows as each hope to win the most 'electrifying teacher' award.

Editor's note

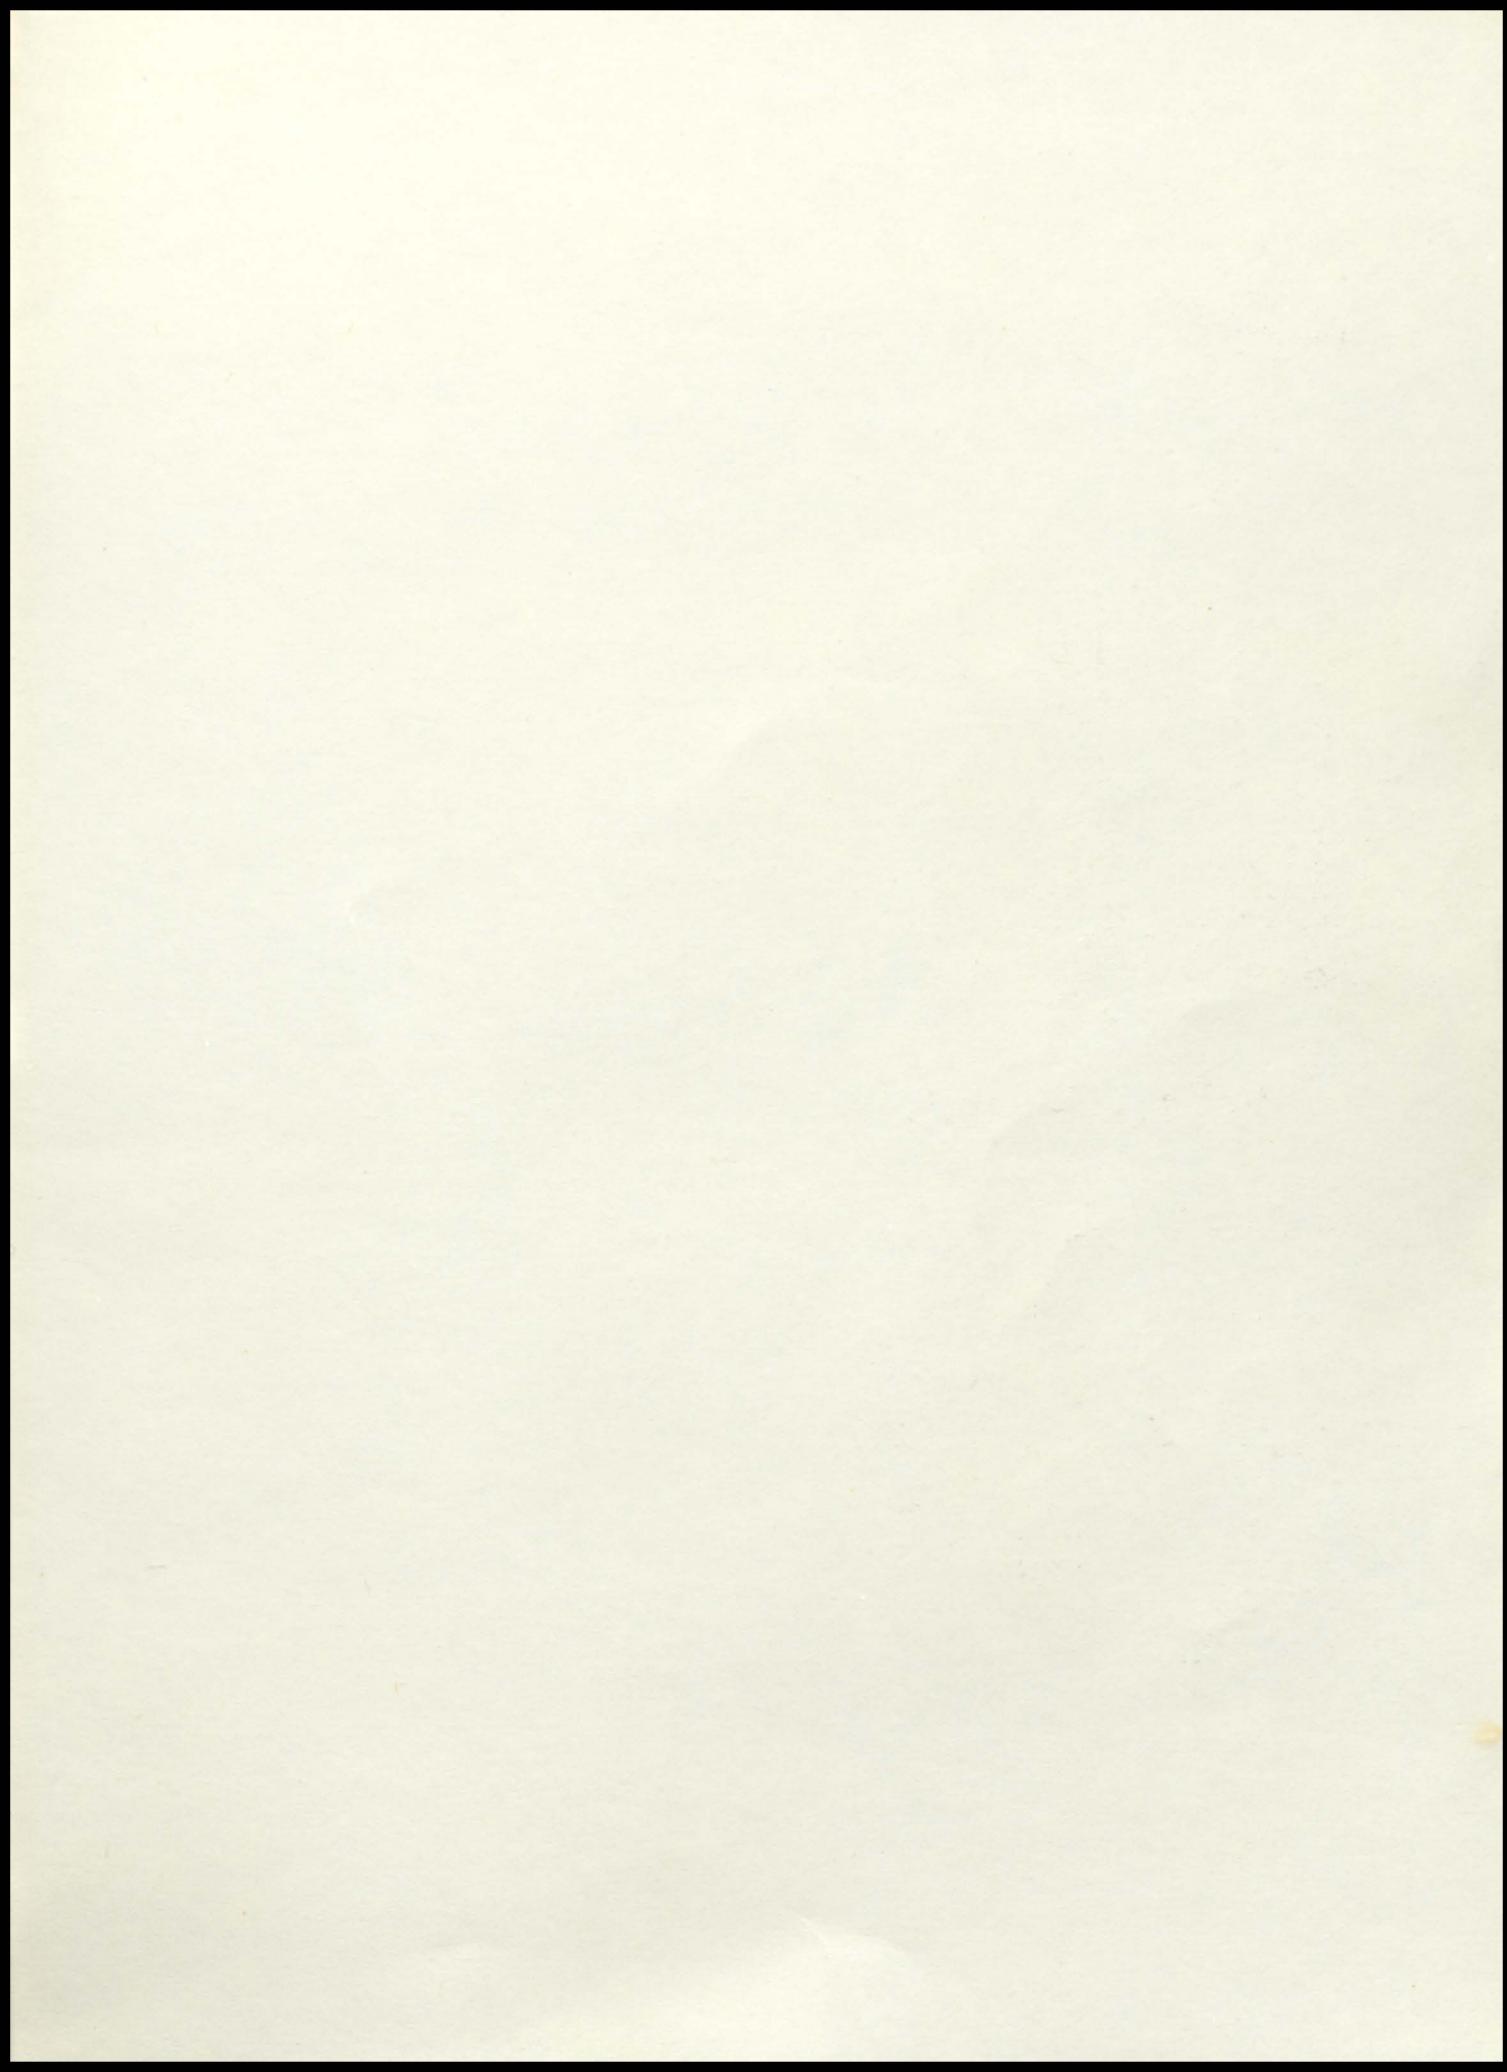

By now you have formulated an opinion of this book. We hope that it is a positive one. It would be impossible for the student body to understand what goes into creating a yearbook. Some of you have had a glimpse of the Rohian Room and learned to avoid it, especially during deadlines. We are expected to produce a masterpiece on extra-curricular time. Because of the pressure and time involved, we missed many other activities. It is difficult to describe activities which we have not witnessed.

As editors, we felt it our duty to give the students a yearbook which showed them in every area of school life. The separation of books is our attempt to show the separation of our time, that which we spend in the masses, and that which we spend alone, or in small groups. It is a new concept, as that we wanted an original book. Please spend some time really looking at this Rohian. It contains errors, as does any human project, but we tried.

There are countless feelings a student experiences. The emptiness after flunking an important test or paper, The overwhelming joy of winning and the agony of defeat, The anxiety of undone projects and the relief at completion.

There is the constant rush: running to and from classes, Students writing in madcap fashion trying to finish an assignment, Grabbing books and shoving coats and boots into lockers, In an attempt to have a finished product and reach class before the bell.

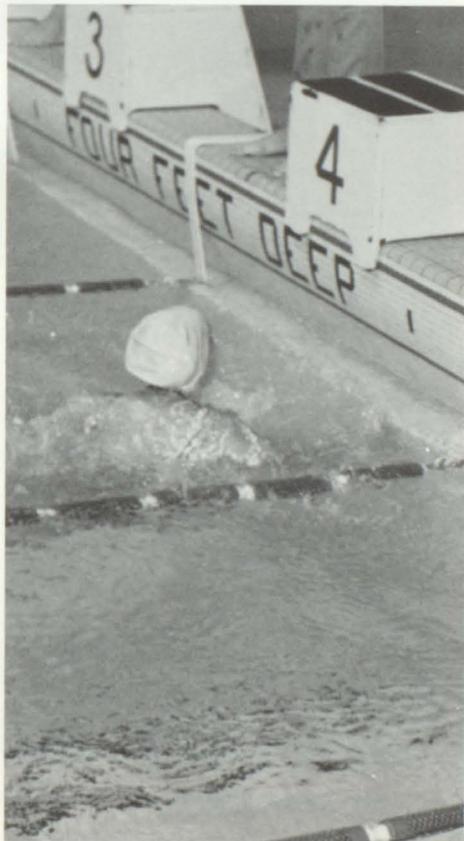

The feelings penetrated VHS, leading us to react in a multitude of ways, allowing short moments for quiet meditation.

Striving to be Number One, in sports, in grades Competition pushed us forward with the human desire to be on top. Passing on to others what we've learned, in hopes that they may improve on it.

Strong feelings pervaded our lives during the year. We had our moments of glory, and those of defeat.

Hard work and amusement combined to mold our individuality and Allowed us to retain it within groups. Much can be said about the feelings we experienced. While trying to suggest it, we can only hope that everyone remembers This year in their own hearts and minds. The feelings are in the past as well as the present. Confusion is in the air as we close this book and face reality.
